More than a wedding blog

Something unexpected, perhaps.

Sharing more than just weddings, styled shoots, advice.

Aiming higher, and all on behalf of wedding suppliers.

It's time for wedding blogs to give back.

As a wedding business owner you have all the tools you need to succeed.

Your beautiful talent (of course)

Your website

Your blog

Your social media accounts

Where else are you getting published?

English Wedding can publish content for you, making sure everything we share is optimised to help your discoverability.

This is your member platform

English Wedding is your new guest blogging platform.

Welcome.

As a member, you'll be able to use English Wedding to say whatever you think is important about weddings in the UK.

You could write guest blogs for couples, offering advice on planning their weddings.

You might want to write about the industry, talk about meaningful trends or how we portray weddings in the media.

Having your quality content published, consistently and in the right places, elevates your brand visibility.

Guest blogging is key to building a lovely little 'cobweb' of backlinks to point at your website and improve your ranking in search (including AI search results).

For every kind of wedding business

English Wedding isn't a directory website. It will never feel oversaturated with suppliers.

It's a curated space for wedding photographers, celebrants, stylists and stationers - for every different UK wedding business owner - who sees the value in getting published.

Whether your wedding business is 20 years old or established one year, your voice is valued.

Membership is affordable, with options to suit each stage of your growth.

This is about sharing your story and your values as an independent wedding business.

Let's talk openly about what matters in weddings, with honesty and with empathy.

Our beautiful wedding industry is built on collaboration over competition. English Wedding is evolving to put suppliers and collaboration at the heart of everything.
